OUR STORY

Our story is about our principals, who have worked in construction companies of various sizes, believing there was a way to combine the structured execution of systems and processes found in large organizations; quality workmanship and long term dependability of mid-size construction firms; and the flexibility and client focus found in smaller construction companies.

So the hard work began of taking their forty-five years of experience to streamline processes, systems, implementing best practices, and incorporating the necessary flexibility to be responsive to clients into their new venture. The fruits of their labour created an organization that believes quality workmanship, excellent client service, and completing a project on time & budget is the minimum you can expect from COREPLAN. Transparency, Respect, Integrity and Passion is what sets us apart.

Through our client focused relationships, our systematic approach to managing your project, and providing quality workmanship and service, we have set high standards to ensure your complete satisfaction of the final product.

We offer our clients a professional, no non-sense level of service. Our Principals are personally involved with project management, budgeting and estimating of every project, allowing us to effectively control, manage and execute the project with a pro-active approach to the last finite detail. CONSTRUCTION MANAGEMENT

We view Construction Management as a partnership with the client and the consultant team. It is the process where we act on your behalf and manage the project from the pre-construction phase to build out of your space, to the post construction phase. We prepare and monitor project budgeting ensuring it's accuracy, and provide financial analysis during the project so you know how your financial resources are spent. Most importantly, construction management means transparency. We believe there must be an open-book policy to establish mutual trust among all parties.

DESIGN BUILD BID

Design Build Bid is a variation of the traditional method Design Build (or sometimes called Lump Sum) of delivering a project where the construction company's bid is based on the clients scope of work and preliminary space plan. The procurement method focus construction companies to develop their team of sub-trades to propose and justify their solution to earn the project. The client benefits from receiving several competing solutions, and can pick the best one that suits their circumstances, all the while keeping the process quite competitive. This delivery method offers COREPLAN the opportunity to provide our expertise and value added services to the design of the project exploiting our experience to provide a solution that will benefit you; through quality, safety, engineering, cost and schedule.
